Whether you're using Yahoo or ESPN, which are the two main fantasy services, there's an app. Everyone has their pros and cons, which I presented to you below. Yahoo! Fantasy Football '10Yahoo is one of the most popular places for fantasy sports and football is no exception. Upside: FreeCheck league and player statisticsOrM changes in the compositionUch is similar to the website The biggest complaint: Yahoo recently brought this application to Android and the biggest complaint I've heard is that it can be a bit unstable. Errors occur when you try to move to different areas of the application. Developers should fix this soon. MARKET ESPN Fantasy Football 2010Sexy the main player in fantasy sports. Upside:Manage lineupsWing all lineup changesPrope tradesGet live scoringScrolling ticker at bottom for newsBiggest complaint: Costs $4.99 (a bit pricey for what it offered for from other services)No widgetComing soon: Market Huddle HubIf you play Yahoo and ESPN, Huddle Hub may be a good choice for you, as it allows users to manage both services. Jest obecnie w wersji beta, więc nie należy oczekiwać, aby być gotowy do użycia. Upside: FreeAllows managing Yahoo and ESPN leagueMake rosterNast complaint: No live scoring and notifications Coming soon: MarketESPN is a more functional app than the other two, but it should be if you pay $4.99 per app. Yahoo! and Huddle Hub will do well if you are looking for a free alternative. I suggest you try them to see how they work for you. You can try the ESPN app for 24 hours, and if it's not for you, just get your money back. But make sure to download one of these apps as soon as the NFL season is already underway. Need to keep up with live scoring and what better way than on your Android phone?
